

THE CHRONICLE.

THE SECOND ACT.

The leading measure now before the House of Representatives is "the bill H. R. No. 2" making appropriations for the executive and judicial expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1880, and for other purposes. Its predecessor was the army appropriation bill, with its rider forbidding the use of the army as a posse comitatus to keep the peace at elections. This may be considered the first act of the drama now occupying the political stage. It has passed both Houses of Congress and awaits the signature of the President. This will probably be given or its refusal, with reasons, announced by the time we go to press. The probabilities of one or other of the alternatives are at our present writing giving rise to the wildest rumors in political circles. We remind all these conjectures to the manipulations of the daily press and proceed with Act II. The legislative, executive and judicial appropriations bill, with its rider abolishing the inquisitorial and arbitrary powers of the Federal Supervisors of Elections.

As this measure will occupy prolonged attention both in Congress and throughout the country, it will be well for our readers to become acquainted with its details. The legislation provided for in this bill, apart from the regular appropriations, consists in the repeal of some clauses and the amendment of others in an act passed, we believe, in 1870 for the supervision of elections by Federal officers under the title of Supervisors. The sections proposed to be repealed are those designated at Nos. 1616, 2018, 2020 to 2027, 2031, 1032 and 5522. Those to be amended are Nos. 2017, 2019, 2020 and 2031. We will examine them in detail. Section 2016 provides that the Federal Supervisors shall attend at the registration of voters with power to challenge applicants for registration to take lists of names challenged by others to be afterwards furnished to the Chief Supervisor, and to sign their names on each page of registers so as to witness against any wrongful addition to or removal from the list. Section 2017 gives them similar supervisory powers at elections with authority to "scrutinize, count and canvass each ballot in their election district or voting district, whatever may be the endorsement on the ballot or in whatever box it may have been placed or found; and a report grounded upon these scrutinies is to be attached to the election returns made by State officers. Section 2020 provides against any impediment being offered to the Supervisors in the execution of these functions. Section 2021 provides for the appointment by Supervisors of special deputy Marshals to assist Supervisors and invested with all the powers of Supervisors. Section 2022 authorizes and enjoins the Marshal and his deputies to sustain the above functions of the Supervisors with force, if necessary. It is one the abuse of which has more than any other contributed to procure the condemnation of all just men than anything else, and we will give it entire.

The Marshal and his general deputies shall keep the peace and support and protect the Supervisors in the discharge of their duties; preserve order at such places of registration and at such polling places, and prevent any disturbance or fraudulently voting thereat, or fraudulently conduct on the part of any officer or election agent, or any other person, or any person who attempts to commit any act or offense prohibited herein or who commits any offense against the laws of the United States; and no person shall be arrested without process for any offense committed in the presence of the Marshal or his general or special deputies, or in the presence of the Supervisors of election or either of them; and, for the purpose of the preservation of the peace, the Supervisors of election shall, if required to assist such deputies, have the same powers as deputy Marshals; nor shall any person, on the day of such election, be arrested without process for any offense committed on the day of registration.

Section 2023 authorizes the trial of offenders against these Supervisors in United States Courts. (Jurors in these courts have to take the iron-clad oath.) Section 2024 empowers the Marshal and his deputies, Supervisors and Assistant Supervisors, if opposed in the execution of these functions, to call on bystanders to act as a posse comitatus to aid him. (And the bystanders are liable to be a detachment of the United States Army.) Section 2025 provides for the appointment of Chief Supervisors by the United States Circuit Courts from among the Circuit Court Commissioners of each district. Section 2026 provides for the appointment of Assistant Supervisors by the Chief Supervisors and for their reporting to them. Section 2027 provides that United States Marshals and commissioners employed in this business shall also report to the Chief Supervisor. Section 2031 provides for the pay of the Supervisors at the Treasury of the United States. His pay is in addition to any he gets as Circuit Court Commissioner; it depends for its amount upon the number of reports he makes. Section 5522 subjects to a fine or imprisonment or both any State officer who resists or obstructs the above-named Federal officers. They are subject to arrest without process, and the imprisonment is limited to two years, the fine to $3,000. All these the majority in Congress desires to repeal. Section 2017 requires and authorizes the presence of the Supervisors at elections and registrations, giving them inquisitorial power over all the proceedings, this has been interpreted to confer on them the power of opening the ballot-boxes and manipulating the ballots. The only amendment proposed to this is cutting out the word "requires" and leaving only the word "authorizes." By section 2019 the Supervisors are "authorized and directed" to be present at registrations, challenges and elections, taking such a position either in front of or behind the ballot-boxes during and after the election "for the work of canvassing the ballots" as will enable them to execute their duties, etc. The words in inverted commas are proposed to be rescinded. Section 2025—No person shall be appointed a Supervisor of Election "or a Deputy Marshal," under the preceding provisions, who is not, at the time of his appointment, a qualified voter of the "city, town, county, parish," election district or voting precinct in which his duties are to be performed. As before, the words in inverted commas are proposed to be rescinded. Section 2021 specifies the pay for Chief Supervisor, Supervisor and Special Deputy Marshal as appointed under this bill. It is proposed to amend it by abolishing pay for all but ordinary Supervisors and prohibiting the appointment of officers of the other classes.

At the risk of wearying our readers we have detailed the important measure now before Congress. A few comments of our own which we shall now present must suffice for our readers to realize the importance of the controversy now going on about it.

Superficially the sections which it is proposed to repeal and amend do not go beyond substituting the executive power of the United States for the State authorities in whose hands the Constitution lodges the arrangements for elections. That alone which is the purpose of these election laws, and which purpose they have in a great measure effected, that transfer of supervisory power from local State officials to the agents of the Federal executive would in itself constitute a virtual revolution under the forms of law. That alone would in a very short time reduce our elective system to a status similar to that in the days of Elizabeth of England when she sent her mandates to the Sheriffs of counties and the Mayors of cities and boroughs to select as their representatives in Parliament "our trusty and well beloved son and so;" or similar to the system so long current in France where, throughout all successive dynasties down to the latter days of MacMahon, the Government appointed the prefects of departments and communes and Mayors of cities, and constituted them the holders and arbiters of election, with discretionary powers as regards registration; and then on the eve of an election "indicated" the Government candidate, with the distinct understanding that the Mayor or prefect retained his appointment, on condition of returning the "indicated" candidate and no other. Such, we say, was the obvious tendency of these laws indicating the election in which the Supervisors were moving; but when we look into the administration of these laws we find it infinitely worse than the laws themselves. There we find the powers which were invoked and established in the interest of pure and impartial elections exercised exclusively in a partisan interest in such a way as to legalize intimidation, fraud and corruption, compared with which the abuses which these laws proposed to cure were as a model to a mountain. We find election agents of the worst and lowest class entrusted with these powers too arbitrary to be safely confided to the best of men. We see the gambling saloons, the drinking saloons, the brothels raked out to find agents sufficiently unscrupulous for the nefarious work on which they are employed—men convicted of repeating at former elections, of theft and swindling, who, as if the powers confided upon them by law were not sufficiently arbitrary, made them ten times more so by construction. On pretense of examining the voting powers of voters they forcibly took them away from the owners and never returned them; on pretense of preventing fraudulent voting they arrested voters by thousands on the eve of election, and thereby prevented them from claiming the most valued right of the citizen, though as simple as determining by the highest judicial authority, their right to vote was unimpeachable; on pretense of scrutinizing the ballot-boxes they have seized and destroyed genuine ballots and inserted fraudulent ones; and in every instance these high-handed outrages have been committed in favor of one party and against the other—in favor of the party by which they were appointed to offices of power and emolument. Such laws so administered constitute a revolution, the most dangerous of the class, a reactionary revolution. They throw the elective functions of the States into the hands of the Federal Executive, and that too at a time when in the executive powers are avowedly and shamelessly administered in the interest of a party for the purpose of retaining that party in a supremacy which has already been refused to the people, though retained by an audacious fraud against the people's will.

What will be the result of the present contest we are unable to predict, but the ultimate result we cannot doubt for a moment; the American people are too well rooted in their devotion to popular principles of government to allow laws so despotic, laws whose powers for redressing the abuses of the people have already been plainly proved, to remain permanently on the statute-book. Whatever the result of the present struggle, the agitation now excited by them will never be allayed till they are finally erased from our national code.

SPEECH BY THE HON. JOHN F. HOUSE.

Read on our first page Col. House's splendid protest against the impugning of revolutionary purposes thrown upon the Democratic party by their Republican antagonists. In one sense this speech is misplaced; it is addressed to men's reason and sense of justice, and so implies an audience of reasonable, just-thinking men. Addressed to the Republican party in Congress it did not find such an audience. The Blaines, Conklings, Edmonds, Logans and Robersons are open to no such appeals; they are prepared to listen to nothing but what speaks to party animosity and sectional animosity, and an appeal like that of our eloquent representative will find no responsive echo in the minds of such men. It will not be wasted, however; the people are better than their leaders, and we are thankful that the generous and manly efforts of Col. House will be read by thousands and hundreds of thousands whose breasts are not steeled by faction against all that is right and true, just and generous.

THE VETO.

The President has vetoed the army bill, and, as this was his least defensible position when compared with that which his party holds in reference to the two other measures before Congress, there is very little doubt but that he will veto them also. This will give us plenty of time to discuss the principle of the veto power; we will only remark at present upon the peculiar character of this as well as his veto message of the silver bill. In both documents he practiced an innovation upon all previous veto messages by entering into an argument with Congress as to the expediency and necessity of the measure and even as to the method of conducting the debate upon the question. He even quotes at large two speeches, one of Mr. Hewitt in the House and one of Mr. Thurman in the Senate, for the purpose of pronouncing strictures upon them.

This is a grave indiscretion on the part of the President and indicates either a total ignorance or a total disregard of the just relations of the executive to the legislative department. The veto was never intended to invest the President with legislative powers in addition to the veto executive powers he possesses, still less to admit him as a participant in the deliberations of the legislative body. A suspension of legislation for the purpose of considering grave constitutional objections and nothing further is the function of the veto power; and these objections have always been stated categorically, not argumentatively. What notice will be taken of this unprecedented proceeding we do not undertake to predict, but we may safely say that Congress will not bandy arguments with the President.

No man can foresee the end of the grave complications which must arise from this very unwise action of the President.

DEAR BELL—Our commencement exercises are over. I have received my diploma, and am now ready to enter with zest into the pleasures of gay society. Attired becomingly in a gay white robe, such as an angel might love to wear, I took a prominent part in the musical exercises in the evening. Although I had contracted a severe cold a few days before, I was enabled by the use of Cousseau's Honey of Tar, the best remedy in the world for coughs and colds, to sing so well that I completely enraptured a large audience. Tell Uncle John that the use of that invaluable compound, Cousseau's Honey of Tar, will cure his cough. It is only 50 cents a bottle, and can be bought at Owen & Moore's Drug Store.

Yours in haste, ANNIE.

WHY
INVEST MONEY IN THE HOMESTEAD

Tobacco Grower?

Because it largely increases the quantity and greatly improves the quality of the crop.

Because it is an honestly made fertilizer, not a mere plant stimulant, and permanently enriches the land.

Because intelligent, practical farmers have proven, after three years of trial with it, that it is admirably adapted to our soil and climate, and has given the best results.

As a permanent, durable Fertilizer

Read what Mr. W. H. Green, of Montgomery county, says:

MR. J. J. CRUSMAN—Dear Sir: I have used the HOMESTEAD brands bought of you on Tobacco and Wheat; have also used the Anchor brand and a Cleveland brand, and while I think all valuable yet I have no hesitation in saying that I give decided preference to the HOMESTEAD brands from the fact that they give evidence of being permanent Fertilizers while the others do not.

Yours truly, W. H. GREEN.

Beats Stable Manure 300 lbs. to the acre and $2 00 per 100 lbs. in quality.

Mr. J. H. Pace, of Montgomery county, says:

DEAR SIR—I bought of you last season 2 bbls. of the HOMESTEAD TOBACCO GROWER and used it on about 4 acres of my poor, worn out land, and in the balance of same land used stable manure, and I feel confident that the increase in my crop where the HOMESTEAD TOBACCO GROWER was used is fully 300 lbs. to the acre, and the quality $2 00 per 100 lbs. better. I can go into my barn and select by the thickness, body and weight of the plants, the HOMESTEAD Tobacco from the other. I am sorry you cannot reduce the price, as brother and myself want a ton of it this year.

Yours truly, J. H. PACE.

Mr. J. S. Williams, of Robertson county, says:

MR. J. J. CRUSMAN—Dear Sir: I used the past season the Homestead Tobacco Grower, the Anchor Brand Fertilizer, a Cleveland Brand, a Chicago Brand and stable manure. I found all of the fertilizers to be useful and improve the crop, but I have no hesitation in saying that the HOMESTEAD TOBACCO GROWER is decidedly my preference, as the land on which it was used still gives evidence that it is a PERMANENT FERTILIZER, while the presence of others is hardly perceptible now.

Yours truly, J. S. WILLIAMS.

1-3 more Tobacco and better than Stable Manure.

DAVIDSON, Todd county, Ky.
MR. J. J. CRUSMAN—Dear Sir: I purchased of you more than a ton of the HOMESTEAD TOBACCO GROWER and used it one teaspoonful to the hill, and am confident that the yield is fully 1-3 greater, and the quality very much better than the same land without it. I can safely say that the HOMESTEAD TOBACCO GROWER is such the best fertilizer I have any knowledge of and better for Tobacco than stable manure.

Yours truly, P. T. RUTHERFORD.

DIRECTIONS

For use on plant beds, sow about 10 pounds for every 10 yards square; dig it in well. When the plants are up sow about same quantity just before a rain when the plants are dry. Never sow when the plants are wet with dew. If the fly is bad sow about 2 pounds to 10 yards square every 8 or 10 days. In the hill much depends on the character of the soil. Ordinarily a tablespoonful in the check before you make the hill.

For Tobacco use the Homestead Tobacco Grower. For Wheat, Corn, Grass, Potatoes, or other vegetables, Fruit Trees, Shrubs, etc., use the Homestead Superphosphate or Wheat and Corn Grower.

The HOMESTEAD was awarded the Grand Medal of Honor and Diploma of Highest Merit at the Centennial.

For certificates or further particulars address,

Sole Agent.
